

There's A Plethora Of Variety Among Voice Over Artists: Voice Over LA

If you've ever wondered about the quality of the available voice over talent on the market, you're not alone. In fact, many people are completely in the dark about the industry and about the astounding variety of performers working today.

Consequently, they are surprised (many times quite pleasantly) to learn of the diversity of voice over artists available to businesses needed such persons. Check out just some of the many types of performers that Voice Over LA has seen over the years; you'll no doubt be amazed by the wide range of abilities.

Mature Adult Voice Over Artists

From young adults to senior citizens, Voice Over LA has been privileged to represent and place a wide range of over-age-eighteen voice over artists for clientele who are in need of mature voices. Whether our customers want a young female in her 30s to portray a busy mom or a Baby Boomer in his 70s to read a script geared toward retirees, we can almost always help them find the right fit.

Younger Voice Over Artists

Sometimes, a younger voice is more appropriate for a particular gig, as in the case of a PSA aimed at teens. In those cases, voice over agents such as Voice Over LA's team of professionals, will look through their files to find the ideal vocal ranges and performers for the job.

Voice Over Artists with Special Dialects

Occasionally, clients need a particular dialect to fit a voice over role; in those cases, the voice over artists they require can be either native speakers of a particular area of the United States, native speakers from another country or a voice over artist with the skills to flawlessly mimic a dialect. At Voice Over LA, we vet our performers to ensure that they have the quality needed for these very specific types of requests.

Specific Voice "Types"

Whether clientele need kids, teens or adults, they sometimes go further in their specifications, requesting a certain type of voice. For instance, a deep voice or a raspy voice might be exactly what's needed to make the customer's voice over copy shine. Additionally, "cartoon-like" voices or voices that are extraordinarily unique can be ideal in some circumstances, such as when handling voice over work for radio or animation.

Voice Over Artists Who Can Mimic Famous Persons

Believe it or not, many clients need voice over artists who can sound like some of the popular figures of the day, such as politicians, singers or actors. At Voice Over LA, we're always seeking out voice over artists who possess this incredible talent. (And we're as wowed as our clients at those performers' gifts!)

In the end, whatever any client needs in terms of a voice over can almost always be easily be arranged. And if you're in need of a voice over performer but you've never tried hiring through a voice over agent before... why wait? Voices over agents are in the business for one reason – to bring their clients the best possible voice over talent. You deserve nothing less!
