

Marc j bern Can Help You If You Have Suffered

In the middle of September the U.S Food and Drug Administration (FDA) notified Ranbaxy, that the FDA will block entry of their products into the United States. Ranbaxy, an Indian generic drug producing giant, sells more than 20 different types of generic drugs to the United States. This notification was administered after it was found that Ranbaxy did not follow the correct standards while producing the generic drugs. It was discovered that they did not follow proper manufacturing standards when producing generic versions of drug that are used to treat diabetes, high cholesterol, and epilepsy. The qualities of the generic drugs that are produced by Ranbaxy have also been called into question after some were found to be of insufficient quality.

Although no evidence has been found that consumers have suffered as a result of the carelessness of Ranbaxy, there are many other drug manufacturers similar to Ranbaxy that have caused serious suffering and even death. If you have been affected by one of these drugs Marc j bern asks that you step forward and file a lawsuit. A recall has not been issued, and the company stresses to patients taking generic drugs produced by Ranbaxy to continue to take these drugs because stopping the use of them could be very dangerous for the health of the patient.

Over the past few years Marc J Bern has dealt with many lawsuits for the misuse and low quality of generic drugs that are produced overseas. One of the most recent products that was taken off the market was a generic form of the drug Heparin, after it contributed to more than 19 deaths and many more allergic reactions. The generic form of Herapin, which is used as a blood thinner, was found to be contaminated. Generic Herapin is a drug produced by the mucous found in animal tissues, and during recent manufacturing of generic Herapin, it was discovered that the drug had been contaminated by an unnatural chemical, which caused the deaths and allergic reactions. If you or a loved one was one of the individual affected by the generic drug of Herapin, contact Marc j bern to file a lawsuit.

Every month new drugs are discovered that cause serious side effects and death. Many of these drug manufacturers have hid the dangers of these drugs from the FDA and from the public in order to make greater profits. Marc j bern is an expert when it comes to winning cases for people who have been affected by these types of drugs. Many of the dangers of these drugs can be contributed to the quality of low-cost generic drugs that are manufactured. The use of generic drugs has been one of the greatest things for the American public, allowing consumers to purchase drugs for much lower costs, but with many of these generic drugs are produced overseas are much harder to regulate than American produced drugs. Some of these low-cost drugs, such as generic Herapin are manufactured in small, unregistered, workshops in other countries.
